ELECTIVES • An elective is any course offered by the MAcc program that is not a required course for your concentration. See the course grid and the course descriptions document for available electives.

500-LEVEL COURSEWORK • A 500-level course may be taken by either an undergraduate student or a graduate student. Taking a required course as an undergraduate student opens additional elective options in your MAcc coursework. It does not reduce the 30 graduate credit hours required to graduate from the program. Students are limited to 12 hours of 500-level coursework during the graduate program.
